The ALHI Global Solution

Connecting Meeting Planners across North America with our World-Class Destination and Hotel Members

With a dedicated team of experienced, internationally trained, and culturally astute Global Sales specialists, ADW helps meeting professionals with their international business needs. Our unique membership includes world-class international destinations, upper-tier hotels, and first-class convention facilities.

Our new site will be a resource for professionals who plan international meetings. It will include complete destination profiles on all ADW destinations, including air lift from the US and Canada, details about meeting venues, hotels and special event venues as well as currency, electricity and cultural information. A resource of additional tips and insights, the site will have an “Essentials” page dedicated to bringing together content and contacts for the complexities of the international marketplace all in one place. We will also keep planners up to date on changes and developments in locations near and far, news about our members and company, as well as international industry happenings. With a growing membership of destinations in 12 countries around the globe, ADW connects you to Europe, Asia, the Middle East, Canada, and Mexico, among many others. Until our new site is up, please contact:
