

GRAND SIERRA BALLROOM

At a whopping 9525 ft. and magnificent 18-foot ceilings, there's a reason why we call this room grand. Need to entertain 660 people? No problem. There's room to spare. And faster than a chameleon changing colors, this grand ballroom can morph into six different configurations for an event as big as your company's aspirations or as small as your deficit ratio.

ALPINE BALLROOM

At 5120 ft., this ballroom can accommodate as many as 480 people dining on the tastiest morsels our chefs can conjure up. And, within a blink of an eye, it can be transformed to hold an intimate group of 32.

TINKERS KNOB

Many a reception has been held in this 840 ft. room. But don't let the size fool you - it's the size of the people's hearts inside the room that matters.

GRANITE CHIEF

If you're cooking up an intimate event, this 624 ft. room can satisfy.

SUN PLAZA DECK

This 6000 ft. outdoor deck has been the cause of executives returning to the office and facing the question, "Were you working or just working on your tan." The answer? "Both."

PAVILION
 It's a room. It's a patio.
 It's a room that's a patio.
 This 8750 ft. outdoor space can accommodate any meeting, large or small. Weather permitting.

SILVER PEAK
 At 810 ft., this room is perfect for those one-on-fifty-four meetings.

PAPOOSE PEAK
 If size matters, this 810 ft. room doesn't know it. This room is perfect for those very, very intimate meetings. You know, the kind that starts with, "I've got some good news and some bad news."

EMIGRANT PEAK
 How many executives does it take to fill a 1650 ft. meeting room? 110. 55 if you divide it in two.

PYRAMID PEAK
 If this room were a boxer it would be a mobile, shifty middleweight. Weighing in at 943 ft., it can shift and move into two different rooms. That makes it a real contender.

CASTLE PEAK
 A bit smaller than its counterparts at 1058 ft., we would highly recommend the group meeting in here knows how to play nicely with each other.

MONUMENT PEAK
 This is Emigrant Peak's identical twin. That makes it a bit difficult to tell them apart. Fortunately for your group, we have very good signage.
